A great night to be a Red Devil fan — Hinsdale Falcon Football players and cheerleaders got a chance to greet the Red Devils as they took the field Friday night. The Falcons also helped out with the HC Dawgs Club and Hinsdale Central's Football "Salute to Service" by holding onto the giant American Flag during the National Anthem. Oliver Clary, a member of the JV Gold team, was one of the Falcons on the field. Please turn to Page 39 for Falcon Football coverage. (Jim Slonoff photo)

D181 invests in its schools over summer

By Pamela Lannom
plannom@thehinsdalean.com

Community Consolidated Elementary District 181 spent more than $2 million over the summer making improvements to its facilities.

"The work has been very swift and has had a huge impact on the schools," board member Sarah Jakobsen said. "The flooring at CHMS has been great. The library at Prospect, night and day.

"It's all very impressive," she added.

The flooring replacement at Clarendon Hills Middle School was the most expensive of the projects, coming in at about $665,000. The project originally was planned for last year, but the board rejected the sole bid it received and then postponed the project. With value engineering, the cost was brought down almost $261,000 from the initial bid of $925,905.

Other projects completed this summer are

- gym floor replacement at Madison, Prospect, Oak, The Lane and Monroe, $390,700

The vinyl Taraflex flooring in these gyms was at the end of its useful life and was replaced.

- fire panel and device replacement at Monroe, $252,000

The existing fire panel and related devices, which had aged and were giving off false alarms, were replaced.

- media resource center remodels at The Lane, $164,485, and at Prospect, $158,450

The MRCs received new paint, new flooring and all new furniture.

Due to material shortages, furniture has yet to be delivered to The Lane, but it is expected to arrive this week.

- detention sitework at Prospect, $103,000

Over the past few years, the ground within and around the detention pond at the school was receding, causing existing drainage systems to fail.

Pumps were upgraded and the land was regraded.

- tuckpointing at Elm, Madison and The Lane, $88,118

- paving at Elm, $84,576

This project remained the last portion of the school parking lot that hadn't been recently replaced.

- sitework at The Lane, $44,340

The athletic field at the school was excavated, sub-surface drain tiles were installed and the field was leveled, graded and seeded. The tiles were connected to the existing storm sewer system under the parking lot. The field will be ready for use in the spring.

- security upgrades at CHMS and Walker, $46,970

Interior and exterior cameras were installed at CHMS ($38,962) and new cart readers were installed at two locations at Walker ($8,008).

- gym sound system upgrade at CHMS, $24,537

The district made use of cooperative purchasing and completed several of the projects — including the gym floor replacement at five schools — in-house to achieve significant savings.

Facilities director Mike Duggan praised the efforts of the custodial and maintenance staff for having schools in beautiful shape for the start of school last month.

Red Devil Nation's Salute to Service

The HC Dawgs Club and Hinsdale Central Football Club held their annual Salute to Service Friday night at Dickinson Field. The clubs invited first responders, active military and veterans to the Hinsdale Central football game. The guests enjoyed seating along the end zone, food, drinks and an introduction at halftime — along with a 35-16 victory over LT. (Jim Slonoff photos)

Tollway project affects Hinsdale drivers

Oasis restaurants closed, traffic to go down to one lane on 47th Street over bridge

By Pamela Lannom
plannom@thehinsdalean.com

Residents who were hoping to get a slice of pizza or a burger at the Hinsdale Oasis one last time before it closed are out of luck.

After being told the portion of the oasis that extends over Interstate 294 would close at the end of the month, the date was moved up, assistant village manager Brad Bloom told The Hinsdalean.

"We were notified yesterday that the Tollway planned to close the oasis at the close of business yesterday," he said Tuesday.

The Tollway notified the village as soon as it was made aware of the closure by MBRE, which leases and operates all the oases, according to Dan Rozek, the Tollway's senior communications manager.

Tenants had been notified of the plan earlier and only three restaurants were still operating, Bloom said — Panda Express, McDonald's and Sbarro.

"It was a surprise for us," he said. "It's kind of an end of an era. I'm glad I went up there last week to take a look at everything."

The 7-11 and gas stations on the east and west sides of the oasis will remain open through construction.

Bloom said the village is working with the Tollway on signs that will inform drivers of opportunities to buy food and gas on Ogden Avenue in Hinsdale.

"We hope to see an increase in business due to reduced options that are available at the oasis," he said.

Village officials also continue to discuss the redevelopment of the oasis site with Tollway representatives. Those talks are moving in a positive direction, Bloom said.

"We know that there is no longer going to be an over-the-road portion, but we want to have some restaurant offerings on both sides of the tollway," he said.

The oasis has generated about $550,000 a year in sales tax revenue for the village, Bloom said. About half is from through the food and beverage tax at restaurants and half from the gas stations.

The Hinsdale Oasis — along with ones at Belvidere, Des Plaines, O'Hare and Lake Forest — were first built in 1959 by the Tollway and leased to Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, according to the Tollway's website. The Fred Harvey Co. operated restaurants and gift shops in the over-the-road pavilions and Standard Oil operated fuel stations adjacent to the oases.

The DesPlaines and O'Hare facilities also were removed as part of the $4 billion Central Tri-State Tollway Project. The Tollway is reconstructing and widening the roadway between Balmoral Avenue and 95th street to provide congestion relief, update old infrastructure and address regional needs. The project is expected to be completed by May 2023.

As part of the project, the Tollway also is building a new pedestrian bridge over I-294 near 47th Street to connect Veeck Park and Spring Rock Park. Construction will affect traffic on the 47th Street bridge starting at the end of this month.

Traffic will be reduced to one lane in each direction through 2022, when the new bridge is scheduled to be completed, Rozek said.

MEETING ROUNDUP

Community Consolidated District 181 Board

Among other business Monday, board members:

- listened to concerns from a handful of parents about the bus service on Route 6, which has experienced problems since the first week of school, and the district's communication with families who live on the route
- approved a salary and benefits report as required by the state. The report lists the position, base salary, vacation and sick days, bonuses and other benefits for teachers and administrators.
- listened to a report on five summer programs offered in the district. More than 1,100 students enrolled in one of the 947 classes or courses taught by 119 staff members.

COVID-19 cases tick up this week in Hinsdale

Thirty-four new Hinsdale residents have tested positive for COVID-19 over the past week.

The DuPage County Health Department reported 32 new cases, and the Cook County Health Department reported two new cases.

That brings the total number of reported cases in the village to 1,986, compared to 1,952 last week.

Amita Hinsdale Hospital had six confirmed COVID-19 patients and no patients awaiting test results as of Wednesday, a spokesman said.

Hinsdale High School District 86, reported six positive cases, 42 in isolation and 10 in quarantine as of Sept. 10. Vaccination rates are 63 percent for students at Hinsdale Central and 94 percent for D86 staff.

In Community Consolidated Elementary District 181, 10 positive cases were reported Sept. 2-13. They involve eight students, one teacher and one staff member.

The rolling seven-day positivity rate for Region 8, which includes DuPage County, was 4.3 percent on Saturday, compared to 4.8 percent a week prior.

Illinois has administered 14.2 million doses of vaccines. An average of 19,802 doses are being administered daily, compared to about 23,613 last week.

More than 63 percent of DuPage County residents are fully vaccinated.

Correction

The Community Consolidated Elementary District 181 Board held a public hearing on and formally adopted its fiscal year 2022 budget June 21. A story in the Sept. 9 issue incorrectly indicated those actions would take place this week.

New nurse takes on crucible of COVID

Former Red Devil Kopp receives rigorous on-the-job training in Tennessee hospital ICU

By Ken Knutson

kknutson@thehinsdalean.com

When Hinsdale native Andrea Kopp decided to pursue nursing as a livelihood, she never expected to launch her career in the middle of pandemic.

Now, almost two months into her nurse residency program in the intensive care unit of Vanderbilt University Medical Center in Nashville, Tenn., the Hinsdale Central 2017 alum said her work, while intense, is what she has long felt called to do.

"I've always wanted to help people in some sort of health aspect," Kopp said late last month. "In nursing, you get to just be there and help people on their worst day and help them to keep on living their life."

She earned her nursing degree from Belmont University — also in Nashville — in May. After passing her boards, she started her residency at the end of the July. The medical ICU she was assigned to is the sister unit with the COVID-19 ICU, so she has been providing care for a lot of very sick patients during the Delta variant wave.

"Last year (the medical ICU) was turned into the COVID ICU, and they had to cap the number of (non-COVID medical ICU) patients at 20," Kopp said.

Like in many other parts of the country, the situation had been improving until this summer's spike. Patients being admitted for something other than COVID-19 again are being diverted.

"We send them to a medical floor to make sure we have room for the COVID patients. In the past week cases have doubled," Kopp said.

Kopp was finishing up her junior year at Belmont last spring when the pandemic hit, forcing her and her handful of fellow nursing students to switch to remote learning. It was a tough adjustment for most students, she related, especially in a field where hands-on learning is essential.

"It was not too fun," Kopp said. "Obviously everything transitioned online, so not really being let into hospitals to do our clinicals was hard."

"We were wanting to help but not being allowed to at that time," Kopp added.

Fortunately, her part-time job as a nurse tech gave her access to what was happening inside the hospital.

"I still was able to get involved in some aspect," Kopp said.

The frontline nurses she witnessed working with very sick patients during the height of the pandemic inspired her.

"I don't know how they did it, to be honest," she said, adding that she learned a lot about palliative care to bring comfort to those whose condition would ultimately prove fatal. "(The nurses) were understaffed and working overtime. All that stuff took a toll on everyone."

The patient demographic is skewing younger with the recent spate of cases, and keeping families informed can be particularly emotional, she said.

"I saw an 18-year-old patient FaceTiming his parents. It was just sad to watch them watching him struggle, and they couldn't even be in the room with him when they wanted to be," Kopp said. "We just try to help them out when family members can't come see them."

There are celebrations, too.

"It's a big deal when people get to move on and go to rehab. It's a good feeling for everyone involved," she said, noting that such success stories have been rare.

Kopp wipes down the seat of her car and leaves her shoes outside her front door upon returning home each day.

"I put my scrubs directly in the washing machine and I go in the shower before I do anything and touch anything," she said, describing her long shifts. "I've really only had a few days off in the past few weeks."

Kopp said she relies on physical fitness outside of work to ease her stress. Commiserating with her colleagues is also cathartic.

"Just having the other nurses around to talk to who understand what's it's like is

Hinsdale native Andrea Kopp graduated from Belmont University's nursing school in May and began her residency in July, regularly working with COVID-19 patients. "Most people who aren't in the middle of it don't understand the depth of it," Kopp said of the taxing nature of the job. "The only people who can really relate to each other are the health care professionals." (photo provided) helpful," she said.

The vehicle caravans and "Heroes Work Here" signs expressing public gratitude for their sacrifices so prevalent last year are far less conspicuous 18 months into the pandemic. Kopp said posing a simple, sincere "How are you doing?" to a nurse is sufficient to communicate one's support.

"Getting put in the spotlight made everyone kind of notice that what we do is hard," Kopp said of the display.

"It just showed how strong nurses are and how much we actually do."

And her experience so far has reinforced her resolve to keep doing it.

I'm super excited to be where I am," Kopp said. "I've learned a ton. All the nurses I'm surrounded by are the best of the best. They're all willing to teach me. It's definitely been tough and overwhelming, but there hasn't been a time where I've asked, 'Why did I do this?'"

POLICE BEAT

Hinsdale police distributed the following reports Sept. 15.

DUI arrests

• Luis Jose Ciprian, 39, 2852 W. 128th Place, Blue Island, was arrested for felony aggravated driving under the influence of alcohol (third violation), two counts of aggravated DUI — license suspended or revoked, driving with a revoked license, transportation or possession of open alcohol by driver, improper lane use, operating an uninsured vehicle and driving too fast for conditions or failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident at 12:40 a.m. Sept. 12 in the 200 block of East 55th Street. Police were dispatched to a property damage crash and discovered the suspect in possession of a cooler containing open cans of beer. He was charged and taken to DuPage County Jail.

• Reginald Harris, 49, 2553 W. 117th St., Chicago, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol, speeding and improper lane use at 12:40 a.m. Sept. 12 in the 200 block of East 55th St. He was charged and released to appear in court.

Criminal trespass arrest

Thomas W. O'Connell, 62, 1424 Oak St., Western Springs, was arrested for criminal trespass to a building and resisting or obstructing a police officer at 6:26 p.m. Sept. 10 at Amita Hinsdale Hospital, 120 N. Oak St. Police responded to a report of a suspect refusing to leave the hospital and being combative with staff. He was charged and released to appear in court.

Identity thefts reported

• Someone tried to use the identity of a resident of the 400 block of North Bruner Place to withdraw $8,500 from the victim's bank account at 12:36 p.m. Sept. 10. The victim was alerted and blocked the transaction. No loss was reported.

• The identity of a resident of the 600 block of North Elm Street was used to open a credit card account and make charges totaling $3,559.21 at 1:28 p.m. Sept. 7.

Arrests do not constitute conviction of a crime, and individuals listed here should be presumed innocent until proven guilty. If charges are dismissed or reduced or the accused is found not guilty, he or she can contact The Hinsdalean at news@thehinsdalean.com to provide us with documentation. Information will be updated online and in the next issue of the paper.

Just1Mike Foundation donates AED to park

The village of Hinsdale and the Just1Mike Foundation will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony and dedication of the first 24/7 SaveStation public access defibrillator at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 21, at Burns Field, 320 N. Vine St.

The station is being dedicated in honor of Michael Brindley, who died of sudden cardiac arrest at age 16. The family are former residents of Hinsdale and Mike was a frequent user of Burns Field.

His mom, Kristy, will fly in from California to attend the ceremony.

A CPR demonstration by the Hinsdale Fire Department, featuring the Just1Mike Junior Board, will follow the dedication. Light refreshments will be served.

Crossings to close this weekend

The Garfield Avenue and Lincoln Street railroad crossings in downtown Hinsdale will be closed during the evening and overnight hours this weekend to facilitate the replacement of railroad ties.

The Garfield and Lincoln crossings will close at 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 18, and reopen at 8 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 19. The crossings will close again at 7 p.m. Sunday and reopen at 8 a.m. Monday, Sept. 20.

The Park Avenue pedestrian crossing also will be closed during the work periods.

Software CEO loves to learn, help others

Employers aren't only concerned with what they can get from their employees. Good employers also want to ensure their employees are getting all they can from their workplace. That's where Amanda Lannert and Jellyvision come in.

Lannert is CEO of Jellyvision, a Chicago-based software company that licenses a platform to large employers who want to help their workforce make the most of the company's benefits packages.

"The average employer offers 200 to 400 point solutions," said Lannert, speaking of the perks and services that are part of many benefits plans. Jellyvision's product, known as ALEX, allows employees to tailor benefits to meet their individual needs.

"It's delightful and helpful and, dare I say, fun," Lannert said of ALEX. And she could say the same of the company where she has worked since its founding in 2001. Jellyvision received the award for Best Culture at the Chicago-based Moxie awards, was named a top-10 best place to work in Chicago by The Chicago Tribune and the No. 1 one place for millennials to work in the city according to Crain's.

Lannert herself also has received plenty of attention while helping to grow Jellyvision to serve more than 1,500 companies, including many Fortune 1,000 clients. She was named CEO of the Year at the Moxie Awards in 2014 and 2015 and Woman of the Year for the Chicago Rotary Club of 2018, among many other accolades. Just this year she was inducted into Chicago Innovation's Hall of Fame.

Raised in Virginia, Lannert attended college in Pennsylvania and moved to Chicago to take a position with Leo Burnett six years prior to joining Jellyvision. Along the way she met Kevin, her husband of 23 years, with whom she has three daughters — Chloe, Elise and Izzy.

Lannert said she never set out to be CEO of anything. While in college she dreamed of a job writing public policy to help hospitals navigate the overlap between science and ethics. Although those plans took an unexpected turn, Lannert said her degree in English literature has helped her at every stage of her career.

"I've used the skills I learned in college," she said.

A self-described lifelong learner, Lannert said she gains knowledge from the many companies and nonprofits on whose boards she serves and from the people she mentors through organizations like Impact Engine and TechStars.

Lannert's love of discovery and exploration carries into nearly every part of her life, including her kitchen, where for two years she has tackled a new ingredient, recipe or cooking technique every Sunday.

"I call it New Food Sunday," Lannert said.

Like ideas shared around the conference table, some turn out to be better than others, but she learns something from each and every triumph and failure.

Lannert said her success as a leader in the business world isn't all about hard work. Respect for people and a good sense of humor are key to making work enjoyable not just for herself, but for those around her.

Fall brings out the best in the town we all love

The autumnal equinox at 2:20 p.m. Sept. 22 heralds the arrival of what some — including many at this newspaper — believe to be the best season of the year: fall.

Yes, we know some have labeled Sept. 1 as the start of “meteorological” fall, but we are traditionalists and lovers of words like “equinox.” Plus, with temperatures in the 80s and 90s most days the past two weeks, we think that designation was a bit premature.

Anyway, actual fall will arrive next week. And we can’t think of a better place than Hinsdale to enjoy this fine season. Here’s just a few of the things we think make the village a great place to be in autumn.

- The Hinsdale Farmers Market

The asparagus and baby radishes of the spring and tomatoes and sweet corn of the summer give way to pumpkins and squashes as the temperatures cool and the growing season in the Midwest nears its end. A slight chill in the morning air makes a hot cup of coffee especially welcome during a stroll past the vendors set up along Chicago Avenue.

The market continues from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mondays through Oct. 25.

- The Hinsdale Fall Festival

An annual treat for families, the fall festival features a costume contest, pumpkin decorating, inflatables and entertainment, with trick-or-treating to follow in the downtown business district. The event is set for Oct. 16 at Hinsdale Middle School.

- Friday Night Lights

After a COVID-19 forced the rescheduling of the 2020 football season to February of this year, the Red Devils are back on Dickinson Field on Friday nights this fall. The team plays two more games at home this year, taking on Downers North during homecoming weekend Oct. 1 and facing Proviso West Oct. 15.

- Fantastic foliage

Recognized as a Tree City USA, Hinsdale has beautiful elms, oaks and maples that enjoy showing off their spectacular colors each fall. We especially enjoy seeing the three “stop-light” trees at Eighth and Grant Streets, brilliant with their red, yellow and yet-to-change green leaves.

- Fabulous flavors

Hinsdale’s eateries offer a host of seasonal delights each autumn — and not just pumpkin spice coffees (although they are tasty). In previous years, menus have featured items like apple crisp, butternut squash salad, pumpkin ravioli, apple cider doughnuts, melted witch cake and caramel apples.

Yes, fall is a delicious and delightful time in Hinsdale. We hope you will enjoy it as much as we do.

COMMENTARY

New voices join pool of contributing columnists

Today I have the privilege of introducing you to our new contributing columnists.

We have quite a big group this year, so I will keep my opening comments brief. Before I jump in, however, I want to express our gratitude to the writers whose terms have ended: Jack Fredrickson, Gabriela Garcia, Susan O’Byrne, Amy McCauley, Beth Smits, Alegra Waverly and Carol Wittemann. They have made me laugh, made me think and occasionally brought a tear to my eye with their columns over the last year or two. It has been a joy to edit their work.

While these columnists have left big shoes to fill, we have four new and two returning writers this year whom I believe are up to the challenge.

Bill Barre is the most tenured resident of the group, having lived here for more than 31 years. He and his wife of 38 years have two boys ages 35 and 32.

In addition to babysitting his granddaughter once or twice a week, he keeps busy writing. Last year he wrote and published a children’s picture book on Amazon and plans to publish two more next year. He also published a mystery novel on Amazon and has penned four screenplays. Finally, he’s working on an advertising-portfolio-creation site to help “wannabe” copywriters and art directors. Like many, he’s found some extra time on his hands over the past 18 months.

“When the pandemic hit, out of sheer boredom, I wrote several humorous (hopefully!) essays that I hope will brighten readers’ days,” he said.

Lisa Seplak has lived in Hinsdale with her family for 20 years. She and her husband of 25 years have a son in college and a dog named Sasha. She has volunteered at various places around town, including her son’s school, and worked part-time at Grace Preschool.

Her reason for wanting to be a columnist is simple. She loves to write.

“I wrote poetry as child, worked on my high school newspaper, majored in communications/journalism in college and now I take classes and write with Ariel Gore and the Wayward Writers,” she said.

Lex Silberberg and her husband have lived in Hinsdale for five years and are raising two young boys. You can read more about her life in her inaugural column, which appears on Page 11 of this issue. She said she’s anxious to get back to an activity she enjoys.

“Writing used to be a huge part of my life, but for the last few years, it has been relegated to emails, texts and thank you notes,” she said. “Looking forward to shaking off the rust and hoping my point of view resonates with a variety of readers.”

Isabella Terry is our student columnist this year. She is a senior at Hinsdale Central High School, where she is a member of the cross country team (and, coincidentally, our athlete profile for this week’s issue), Business Professionals of America and the Math Team.

She also serves as a peer leader. She’s lived in Hinsdale all 17 years of her life, she said, with her parents and two older brothers, who are in college now. She also loves reading and sushi.

“Writing has always been my favorite activity at school and a passion of mine,” she wrote in her application. “I love that powerful and interesting stories can be told in only hundreds of words.”

John Bourjaily is picking up the pen again after a decade-long break. A broker at @properties, he’s a 25-year resident. He and his wife of 30 years have three daughters ages 20, 22 and 26. John has a great sense of humor and views life’s happenings through that lens.

“I love making people smile, and I’ve found that I have a knack for getting an occasional chuckle out of people with my writing,” he said about returning as a columnist. “I try not to concern myself about whether they’re actually laughing with me or at me.”

We’re laughing with you, John.

Eight-year resident Mistie Lucht is returning after a six-year hiatus. The mom of three girls ages 9, 12 and 14 has her own personal training business, Fit Force, and a small children’s business, Wiggle: Tooth Fairy Registry, with her first children’s book coming out later this year. She also just started a new job and recently returned to school to earn her master’s in marketing at DePaul’s Kellstadt School of Business. On the volunteer front, she is co-leading the Hinsdale Junior Woman’s Club Health Committee and is a former volunteer with the Hinsdale Humane Society.

Clearly she wanted to come back as a columnist because she didn’t have enough to do.

“I was a columnist when I first moved here, and now, more ‘seasoned’ in Hinsdale, I am excited to share more about my experiences,” Lucht said. “My outlook on life has changed and improved, and I hope that comes across in the themes of my writing.”

Bret Conway and Kelly Abate Kallas, you will be happy to know, still have another year on their terms.

I hope you, our readers, will enjoy the work of all these talented writers. I know I always do.

GUEST COMMENTARY

That pesky 'just' doesn't bother me

As I'm sure was the case for many, this summer marked my family's maiden voyage from Hinsdale in 18 months. It was our first plane ride, first meal in a restaurant and first time seeing relatives in person. I was ready to travel — but completely unprepared to question my own identity.

Lex Silberberg

The trip was equal parts frustrating and enjoyable: We experienced the rainiest July in Massachusetts in 80ish years (yay, lots of unexpected time indoors) but also tons of face time minus Facetime with those dearest to us. Memories were made over heated Candy Land games, Crayola masterpieces, Jeopardy! high scores and eating our weight in fresh seafood sans utensils. Pretty sweet stuff ... until it happened.

Amidst the fun, I turned to one of my nieces — whom I hadn't seen since she was 1 yet quickly became a willing accomplice in my shenanigans - and said, "I'm glad we're friends."

"But Auntie Lex," she replied earnestly. "We're not friends. You're, like, just a mom."

Leave it to a 6-year-old to take you down a peg.

She wasn't wrong in her labeling: I am a mom. It's been the sole line on my resume for five years and a definite adjustment — my life B.C. (before children) was full-time work, spontaneous travel and zero "Cocomelon: — but the "just" threw me. Am I as one-note as she suggested?

I know I'm not alone here:

According to a MagnifyMoney report based on U.S. Census data, the percentage of parents staying home with their kids has risen 60 percent across the country since 2019. (It also highlights that as of early 2021, 2.4 percent of parents were staying at home; pre-COVID, it was 1.5 percent.) And we kind of do it all: A 2020 Oxfam analysis figured unpaid work by stay-at-home U.S. parents — think: housekeeper, chef, nanny, chauffeur, etc. — would be worth $1.5 trillion in 2019, calculated using hourly minimum wage.

Not sure if they factored in the skills of snack-getter, Magnatile architect or DVR savant, but the math works for me.

My sons are 5 and 3 and 20 months apart. They're hilarious but opinionated. Loving but loud. Well-meaning but a handful. "Me time" exists (props to a wonderful preschool and a work-from-home husband) but with no family close by and, frankly, nowhere to go this past year, it's limited.

My attempts to shed that pesky "just" range from serviceable paddle player to amateur yogi to Photoshop dabbler to (hopefully) relatable columnist but I'm FINALLY realizing that I don't — and shouldn't — have to fit neatly into one category.

Being "just" a mom — whatever that means — is just fine with me.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Daughter honors mom's many contributions to village

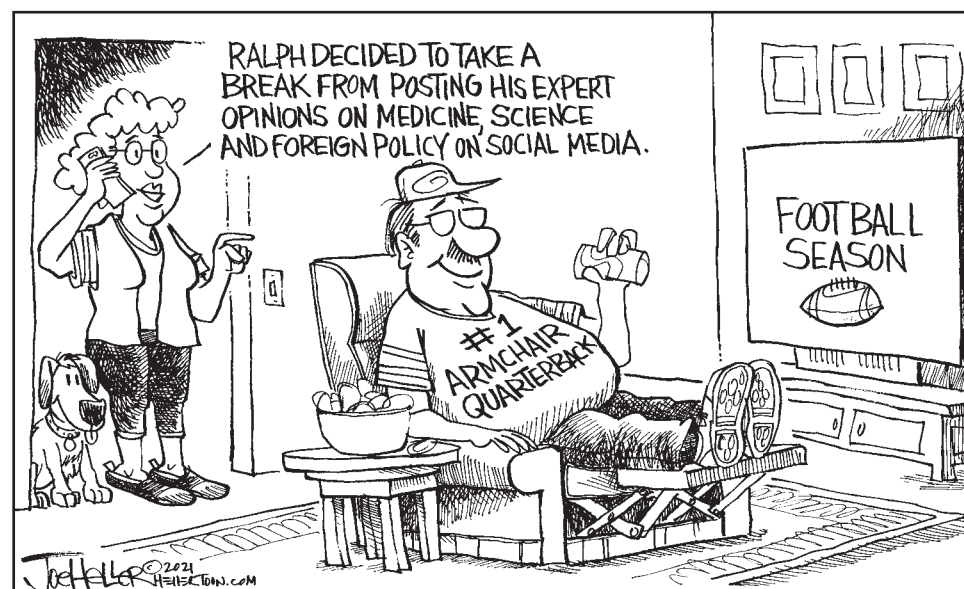

I wanted to recognize a beautiful and spirited woman in our community and local interior designer, my mother, Mary Anne Herring.

In 1986 my mom opened a home design store called Robin's Egg Blue in Hinsdale, which had a storefront for 24 years. Perhaps you shopped there and remember the sparkle and enchantment walking in the door and the warmth in being greeted. If you ever received a gift, it was unforgettable in the delicate wrapping and what was inside. I learned an important life lesson of attention to detail in my mother's craft. All she touches is made more beautiful because of the gift of her creativity.

She has participated in 10 decorators show case homes and maybe she has walked into your home. She has served on committees at Grace Episcopal Church of Hinsdale and volunteers at events like Christmas Eve, Alter Guild, adopting families, co-chair of estate sale auctions, and serves as a vestry member.

My mother has taught me the importance of work ethic, persistence, giving back to others, especially those in need, and pausing for inspiration and for friends. Robin's Egg Blue closed its doors but Mary Anne keeps opening doors and finding ways to continue to decorate our hearts and homes. On this 80th birthday we celebrate you, Mom, for all you have done in serving our community and all you have done as a mother and nana. — Kimberly Herring, Minneapolis

ASK AN EXPERT

TOM LYNCH, 11TH DISTRICT COMMANDER

What does the American Legion do for vets?

Last weekend's 20th anniversary 9/11 commemorations reminded Americans both of the tremendous loss suffered and the stirring acts of heroism exhibited in the face of unimaginable terror, an occasion now observed as Patriots Day.

Today, Sept. 16, is also a tribute to patriots. American Legion Day marks the 1919 birth of the oldest veterans organization in the U.S. Hinsdale American Legion Post 250 was among the first chapters, then consisting mainly of former World War I combatants.

"It is a group of veterans that still want to help other veterans," explained Tom Lynch of the organization's mission. The former Post adjutant now serves as commander of Illinois' multi-county 11th District.

That assistance ranges from the personal, like providing gifts or commissary coupons for patients at Hines VA Hospital in Maywood, to the global, like leading campaigns to enact the G.I. Bill after World War II and compensate service members made ill by exposure to Agent Orange in Vietnam.

"We're the ones that fight for all the veterans stuff," Lynch said.

Operation Comfort Warriors helps combat vets transition back home by providing clothing, tech devices and other essentials. The National Emergency Fund extends grants to former military who have incurred property loss due to a tornado or other disaster. And during the federal government shutdown a few years ago, the Legion stepped up to make sure Coast Guard members got paid.

"There's just so much that the Legion does, people don't realize it," Lynch remarked.

The Post operates out of the Soldiers and Sailors Room on the Memorial Building's second floor. The space was dedicated to the Legion as a thank-you for the Ladies' American Legion Auxiliary's instrumental role in raising funds to construct the building in 1928. The Post has remained a service-minded force for the last century, leading annual Memorial Day ceremonies and even sponsoring a village carnival back in the 1950s and 60s.

Deserving local middle and high school students receive Legion awards every year, and a Post panel chooses submissions for the annual statewide youth essay contest on citizenship.

"The winner, depending on what group they're in, gets anywhere from $1,500 to $2,000," said Lynch, who has served as a judge. "I learn a lot from the essays."

The Post also sends three kids each year to the Boys State government education program — the Auxiliary does the same for Girls State — with hopes of growth.

"We've got limited income and we're trying to expand that so we can send more kids," Lynch said.

Just inside the entrance to the Post's meeting room hang vintage portraits of men in uniform.

"I thought these were just some old pictures, and someone said to me, 'Open it up'," Lynch recalled.

He did, revealing an album of several dozen pristinely preserved photographs of the Post's charter members. With few World War II veterans left and prospective younger veterans less inclined to join, membership is shrinking. But the legacy is strong, he said.

"I think if we can get the people in and let them know the Post is here, it's a good thing."

Not just another opening, another show

Theaters anxious to welcome back audiences to live shows after COVID-19 hiatus

By Pamela Lannom
plannom@thehinsdalean.com

The return of Broadway shows in New York has created a lot of buzz in the entertainment industry. Not to be left behind, three local theaters also are re-opening this season.

Audiences at the Theatre of Western Springs had not seen a Mainstage production since Greg Kolack directed "The Great Gatsby" a year and a half ago. That changed last weekend with the opening of "The Outsider," which continues this weekend.

"We had an audience that was ready to laugh and ready to see live theater," said Kolack, who also is directing this show.

The show originally was set to open the 2021 season.

"We felt at the time, because it's a show about politics, it would be a great show to open the season, given a year ago we were nose deep in the presidential election," Kolack said.

The message remains relevant, he said, crediting Paul Slade Smith for writing a well-constructed script that creates political humor without attacking a particular party.

"He never mentions Democrats. He never mentions Republicans," Kolack said. "It's never jokes at the expense of Republicans or jokes at the expense of Democrats or jokes at the expense of Independents. It's just about the absurdity of politics and how we've gotten to this point."

Smith leaves audiences with a bit of hope, Kolack said.

"He also makes a really nice comment about when it works as it's supposed to, when people work together, how important government can be and the things it can do that people cannot do."

More than a musical

Drury Lane Theatre in Oakbrook Terrace also is opening its season with a show originally slated for a 2020 run.

"Forever Plaid" — a small, safe, cost-effective musical — was chosen to open the season, director/choreographer Paul Stancato said.

"The good news is after we did our designer presentation last week for the producer, he was reassured that they made the right decision,"

The cast of "The Outsider" at the Theatre of Western Springs was thrilled to welcome back audiences to the theater last weekend. The political comedy is on stage again this weekend. (photo by Greg Kolack)

Stancato said.

The show tells the story of a young quartet on their way to pick up new plaid tuxedo jackets when they are hit by a bus full of Catholic school girls en route to see the Beatles debut performance on the Ed Sullivan show. They don't survive the accident, but they do wake up half a century later to discover it is 2021. They need to perform their show in order to move on to whatever is next in the afterlife.

One of the joys of the show is watching the group adjust to being back on stage after decades of not performing, Stancato said. That's reflected in the choreography he created.

"(They) can't just step on stage and be all dusted and polished," he said.

The roles are typically played by four white men, but Stancato wanted to bring more diversity to the show. His cast represents African-Americans, Hispanics and Asians as well as whites. That creates a double metaphor, Stancato said, of a group fighting to be heard not only as a vocal group but as a multiracial group coming together to make music.

He also sees the group's struggle to adjust to a new normal as metaphor for the world's current situation with COVID-19.

"We are all kind of stepping through this newness together," he said.

The songs and skillful harmonies will appeal to audience members of all ages, Stancato said. So will the opportunity to get lost in live theater for 90 minutes.

"You're going to leave a lot happier than when you came in," he said.

A suspenseful sequel

Music, dance and comedy are clearly big draws for audiences. But a taste of the macabre can be, too, especially as Halloween approaches.

"We tend to do a mystery or something a little Gothic in the fall, something that is appropriate for the season," said Hayley Rice of First Folio Theatre, where "The Jigsaw Bride: A Frankenstein Story" opens next month.

The script by Joseph Zettelmaier, with whom First Folio audiences are familiar, is complicated, said Rice, the show's director.

"It's one of those shows where audiences might leave and be unsure who was the good guy and who was the bad guy in the story," she said.

The narrative tells the story of the Bride of Frankenstein, a titular character who remains quite a mystery.

"She has no lines. We know nothing about her or her history or anything," Rice said of the Mary Shelley play on which this work is based. "Her name just identifies her as being an unwilling second half. I think it puts this horrifying concept of unwilling rebirth into a wider context."

Save the dates

Drury Lane, First Folio and the Theatre of Western Springs have announced their performance schedule for the 2021-22 year. Below is a list of their upcoming productions.

Rice said pausing during the pandemic was appropriate, but she is happy to see live theater return to First Folio.

"I love theater," she said. "I've devoted my life to it. I love acting. I love directing. It's a lot of my identity. Theater is a lot of who I am."

First Folio has always had a family feel, said Rice (the daughter of its founders), and a close relationship with audiences.

"They always considered the audience as the First Folio family," she said of her parents, David Rice and the late Alison Vesely. "I know it's going to feel like a delightful family reunion."

The First Division Museum's UH-1 Iroquois helicopter will be on display in the Tank Park at Cantigny for the entire month of September. The "Huey" was the workhorse for Army assault units in Vietnam. See Page 26 for details. (photo provided)

Examining expectations as a new school year begins

The beginning of school is generally a steep climb for parents. Keeping up with the emails, forms to sign, supplies needed and scheduling extracurriculars is a major task. Add on the COVID-19 guidelines and related updates, and it's enough to make the eyes cross for even the most organized parent.

First, let's acknowledge that living through a global pandemic has been and still is traumatizing. Many factors remain fluid and continue to change. Pandemic living often has us adjusting to new circumstances before we've adapted to the previous ones. The need to be flexible is high and can lead to confusion around expectations.

So, where do expectations for our children fit in during this strange, in-between stage of COVID we're in? Having clear, consistent expectations is important and reassuring for children of all ages. Under the current circumstances, however, it's easy to start feeling unclear and become inconsistent around expectations.

Consider the following as you and your child move into this school year:

- Re-evaluate your role

If your role with schoolwork during remote learning shifted to becoming over-engaged or disconnected, begin shifting back more toward the middle. It may have been necessary or unavoidable then, but likely won't serve your child now. Talk openly with your child about this shift in a manner that makes sense for their age. All children may benefit from added support now as school begins; however, don't confuse this with chronic rescuing. Be sure your expectations align with your child's abilities and needs over what you wish them to be.

- Remember children are children

We may be skilled at adjusting to changing circumstances, but children (particularly younger children) are still developing this skill and may require more time and space to transition. Age,

Alisa Messana
On mental health

temperament and learned coping skills (positive or negative) are a few factors that influence a child's ability to adjust and adapt. Academic performance may be different than it was pre-COVID, especially for children with learning challenges. They may be faced with increased social issues now that in-person learning has resumed.

Be mindful of existing mental health issues your child has that became exacerbated during COVID or new ones that are developing. Changes in mental health of children can also present themselves through physical complaints.

- Plant seeds of self awareness

One of the most important social emotional skills you can teach your child is the ability to tolerate discomfort around things they can't change. For instance, it doesn't benefit kids to keep waiting for life to 'go back to normal' or focus strongly on negative aspects of the pandemic. Help them balance between seeing the not just the details, but also the bigger picture. This life skill will benefit your child now and throughout life.

- Attend to basic needs

Not only theirs, but yours as well. Be sure everyone is eating and sleeping well. Pay attention to the impact news and social media have on your and your child's well-being. Check in with your own emotions frequently. If you're regulating your emotions well, your child is more likely to do so as well. This helps everyone feel more clear about realistic expectations.

If you feel your child needs help academically or socially/emotionally, proactively seek support before it becomes a crisis. Parenting is one of the most difficult joyful things we do. Be patient with your child as well as yourself this year.

Sept. 16-19
Theatre of Western Springs
4384 Hampton Ave.
<http://www.theatrewesternsprings.com>
(708) 246-3380

This comedy by Paul Slade Smith follows Lt. Gov. Ned Newley, who likes life behind the scenes. When the governor is kicked out of office, Ned is thrust into limelight. Terrified of public speaking, he seems destined to fail, but bombastic political consultant Arthur Vance sees things differently. Proof of full vaccination or recent negative COVID-19 test and masks (regardless of vaccination status) required. Times: 8 p.m. Thursday & Friday, 2:30 & 8 p.m. Saturday, 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets: $23-$25.

■ 'Forever Plaid'

Sept. 17-Nov. 7
Drury Lane Theatre
100 Drury Lane, Oakbrook Terrace
<https://www.drurylaneoakbrook.com>

On the way to their first big gig, tragedy strikes Forever Plaid, a "guy group" specializing in barbershop quartet harmonies and pitch-perfect melodies. The story begins when the guys are given the chance to perform from the afterlife. This smash hit musical is a nostalgic homage to the music of the 1950s and includes hits such as "Three Coins in the Fountain" and "Love is a Many-Splendored Thing." Showtimes: 1:30 p.m. Wednesdays, 1:30 and 8 p.m. Thursdays, 8 p.m. Fridays, 3 and 8 p.m. Saturdays, 2 and 6 p.m. Sundays. Tickets: $57 to $72 show only, $82-$127 with dining package.

■ 'The Legacy of Sherwood Forest'

Saturdays & Sundays, Sept. 25-Oct. 31
Morton Arboretum

4100 Route 53, Lisle
<https://mortonarb.org>

Walk a roughly 1.5-mile hike alongside actors as they perform this walking play live among 1,700 acres of trees and beautiful landscapes. The play features the modern-day descendants of Robin Hood, who join forces to discover the mystery of who — or what — is casting a dark shadow on their beloved woodland playground. Oct. 7 and 17 shows are low-impact hikes designed for those with lower mobility. Time: 4 p.m. Tickets: $25, $15 for children. RR

■ 'The Jigsaw Bride: A Frankenstein Story'

Oct. 13-Nov. 14
First Folio
1717 W. 31st St., Oak Brook
<https://www.firstfolio.org>

This world premiere, written by Joseph Zettelmaier and directed by Hayley Rice, tells the eerie and suspenseful tale of noted scientist Maria von Moos, who — 100 years after the death of Victor Frankenstein — decides to excavate a ruined castle deep in the Geneva woods. In her search to uncover one mad man's secrets, she makes a startling discover. Inspired by the work of Mary Shelley, "The Jigsaw Bride" continues the electrifying legend. Proof of full vaccination or recent negative COVID-19 test and masks (regardless of vaccination status) required. Previews run Oct. 13-15. Show times: 8 p.m. Wednesdays, 3 and 8 p.m. Thursdays, 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, 3 p.m. Sundays. Tickets: $49-59, $44-$54 for seniors, $20 for students.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Hanson 70th anniversary

Don and Rolene Hanson were married Sept. 6, 1951 in Battle Creek, Mich.

Early years saw them teaching in several Adventist Academies. Don's first role in health care was as an assistant administrator of Hinsdale Hospital, a 475-bed acute care facility, then in Worthington, Ohio, as administrator of Harding Hospital, a 110-bed psychiatric hospital. He returned to Hinsdale as president and CEO of Adventist Healthcare System, president of Hinsdale Hospital and regional president of four hospitals. In Denver, he was president and CEO of Porter Hospital, a 375-bed acute care facility and president and CEO of Rocky Mountain Adventist Healthcare (including 10 hospitals).

Rolene's passion and career was in music. She taught voice and piano, directed church choirs and chorales, and produced many special programs. She recorded albums with her Chicago Area Chorale and as a solo artist.

In retirement, they lectured on health and nutrition across the country. Don was president of Weimar Institute in the early 2000s. Traveling in their RV for a number of years was a special time for them, as were their winters in Cathedral City.

Today Rolene enjoys sewing, knitting, custom card making and cooking. Don enjoys doing puzzles and studying Spanish and continues to ride his bicycle.

They are the parents of four daughters, (Cynthia, Debra, Lori and Keri) and one son (Don Jr.) and have nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

A special celebration hosted by their children was held Sept. 11, in Hendersonville, NC (where they moved last December) to celebrate their 70th anniversary and their 90th birthdays (in August and September).

Energy bill headed to governor's desk

By Jerry Nowicki
Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois Senate put the final legislative stamp on an energy regulation overhaul bill Monday, sending it to Gov. JB Pritzker, who says he will sign it.

It's the culmination of years of negotiation, and it marks a policy win on one of Pritzker's biggest outstanding first-term campaign promises as the 2022 campaign heats up. The measure passed by a 37-17 vote, with Republicans Sue Rezin, of Morris, and John Curran, of Downers Grove, joining Democrats in support.

"After years of debate and discussion, science has prevailed, and we are charting a new future that works to mitigate the impacts of climate change here in Illinois," Pritzker said in a statement after the bill's Senate passage. "(Senate Bill) 2408 puts the state on a path toward 100 percent clean energy and invests in training a diverse workforce for the jobs of the future. Illinois will become the best state in the nation to manufacture and drive an electric vehicle, and equity will be prioritized in every new program created."

The final proposal forces fossil fuel plants offline by 2045, spends billions of dollars to subsidize renewable and nuclear energy to prevent plant closures, incentivizes the adoption of electric vehicles, funds workforce training programs and requires union labor on the installation of renewable infrastructure.

Advocates hailed it as a nation-leading climate bill, while downstate Republicans warned of its impact on consumer bills and energy grid reliability.

Senate President Don Harmon, D-Oak Park, said it sets the state on an "aggressive and progressive" path toward decarbonization and renewable energy adoption, while leaving pathways for future

General Assemblies to reassess the state's energy needs through follow-up legislation.

"Our goal all along was to enact reliable renewable and affordable energy policies that put Illinois in a position as the nation's leader," Harmon said in closing floor debate. "That's exactly what we're doing here today."

Investments, cost increases

The measure, Senate Bill 2408, aims to put Illinois on a path to a carbon-free energy future by 2050 by doubling the state's ratepayer investment in renewable energy and further subsidizing the state's nuclear fleet. It aims to increase the portion of the state's energy produced by renewables from less than 8 percent to 40 percent by 2030 and 50 percent by 2040.

The main provision in the bill is a massive increase of more than $350 million annually to the pot of money funding renewable projects. It also provides that more than $300 million already collected for renewables will be spent for such projects instead of being refunded to ratepayers.

The bill also provides $694 million in total over a five-year period to subsidize three nuclear plants owned by Exelon Corp., preventing the closure of a plant in Byron that Exelon said it would take offline Monday in the absence of legislative action. It issued a statement after the bill's passage saying it would begin the refueling process.

Other expenditures include a $180 million annual investment in equity-based and "just transition" programs aiming to diversify the renewable industry and to provide out-of-work fossil fuel employees with a pathway to renewable energy jobs.

The bill also provides subsidies to convert coal-fired plants to solar or energy storage facilities at about $47 million annually starting in 2024.

While the subsidies and investment programs are staggered in their implementation dates, the Citizens Utility Board estimates that it will cause an increase to ratepayer bills of about $3 to $4 a month over the next five years.

Sen. Donald DeWitte, R-St. Charles, cited the AARP estimate and a Crain's Chicago Business analysis that showed the increase could be between $7 and $8 monthly.

"The fact is, no one knows how much this piece of legislation is going to cost Illinois ratepayers," he said. "What we do know is that it will be borne by all ratepayers in the state."

"Laurel came to us as a referral and after working with her I can see why she comes so highly recommended. She is knowledgeable, has valuable experience and most importantly her response time is faster than we have ever seen. In this market having your finger on the pulse is critical. For example, if we liked a property she would call us within minutes and out the door for a pre showing. Her response time, being readily available and her communication skills is what got us our home. Laurel not only got us to a quick close but she continued to help us after and went above and beyond what realtors do. We plan on giving her lots of referrals because we know she will get the job done every single time. We think she is amazing!" – Bill & Shelly H.

Enforcement of mask mandate questioned

By Peter Hancock
Capitol News Illinois

SPRINGFIELD – Expressing concern that the Illinois State Board of Education might have overstepped its bounds by threatening to withhold funding from school districts that do not enforce its mask mandate, a legislative panel on Tuesday urged the agency to put its policies into formal rules.

The unanimous vote by the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules, or JCAR, represented one of the few times that Illinois lawmakers have pushed back against the enforcement of Gov. JB Pritzker's executive orders since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic. It came after intense questioning of ISBE officials, especially from Republican members of the panel.

Sen. Don DeWitte, R-St. Charles, said he has no problem with wearing masks or getting vaccinated and that he encourages others to get vaccinated as well.

"Having said that, I do have concerns with government overreach and those who act outside their authority," he said. "That is the purpose of our questions today. As one member of JCAR, it is incumbent upon all of us to ask questions to ensure government is acting within its authority and in line with state statute."

On Aug. 4, Pritzker issued an executive order requiring all public and nonpublic pre-K-12 schools to follow joint guidance from ISBE and the Illinois Department of Public Health by requiring all students, staff and visitors to wear masks indoors.

Since then, the state board has taken an aggressive stance in enforcing that rule by either placing districts on probation or, in the case of nonpublic schools, revoking their official state recognition.

According to data from the state board, 47 public school districts have been placed on suspension for refusing to comply, although all but four of them have since agreed to come into compliance. Beecher City Community Unit School District 20, Hutsonville CUSD 1, Cowden-Herrick CUSD 3A and Nauvoo-Colusa CSD 325 remained on probation as of Tuesday, meaning they are at risk of losing state recognition and funding.

A total of 15 nonpublic school systems have had their state recognition revoked for noncompliance, although six of those have since had it restored. Losing recognition can mean, among other things, that their graduation diplomas are not recognized by state colleges and universities and they are ineligible to take part in interscholastic events.

DeWitte and other Republicans on the panel questioned whether the state board had any statutory or administrative authority to take enforcement action against schools that refuse to comply with "guidance" issued by state agencies.

"Guidance is guidance. Guidance is not a rule," said Rep. Keith Wheeler, R-Oswego. "A rule is enforceable. A statute is enforceable. I don't believe that an executive order is enforceable to the same degree as statute or (a rule)."

But Kristen Kennedy, deputy legal counsel for ISBE, said the agency was relying on an existing administrative rule that says, "A school district shall be placed on probation if it exhibits deficiencies that present a health hazard or a danger to students or staff" as well as Pritzker's executive order and the joint guidance issued by IDPH and ISBE.

She also cited a 2020 Sangamon County court ruling involving the Hutsonville school district – one of the four public districts still on probation – that held Pritzker's executive orders and the joint guidance were all legally issued and enforceable.

Wheeler, however, compared ISBE's actions with the situation lawmakers faced in the early phases of the pandemic, when JCAR pushed back against emergency rules issued by the Illinois Department of Public Health that would have allowed for criminal prosecutions of businesses that violated Pritzker's initial stay-at-home order.

"When it comes to how you direct things toward the public, guidance says 'should' and rule and law say 'shall.' And rarely can you cross over those two, because otherwise there's no point in us having a legislature to oversee these things, to set the policy," he said.

Soon after that, the panel went into recess behind closed doors. Several minutes later, members emerged and voted 10-0 on a motion urging ISBE to propose rules that more clearly defined process to be used before revoking a school's recognition. JCAR's next scheduled meeting is set for Oct. 19, in Springfield.

Delicious autumn! My very soul is wedded to it, and if I were a bird I would fly about the earth seeking the successive autumns. George Eliot

By all these lovely tokens September days are here, With summer's best of weather And autumn's best of cheer.
Helen Hunt Jackson

There is a harmony in autumn, and a luster in its sky, which through the summer is not heard or seen, as if it could not be, as if it had not been!

PUBLICATION SUMMONS

STATE OF WISCONSIN
TO: Rebecca L. Steekley
321 S. Elm Street
Hinsdale, IL 60521

You are hereby notified that the plaintiff named above has filed a lawsuit or other legal action against you. The Complaint, which is served upon you, states the nature and basis of the legal action.

Within forty-five (45) days of September 9, 2021, you must respond with a written Answer, as that term is used in Chapter 802 of the Wisconsin Statutes, to the Complaint. The Court may reject or disregard an Answer that does not follow the requirements of the statutes. The Answer must be sent or delivered to the Court, whose address is:

Clerk of Circuit Court
Green Lake
County Courthouse
571 County Road A
Green Lake, Wisconsin 54941
Phone: (920) 294-4142

and to Attorney Thomas J. Binder, whose address is:

Simpson & Deardorff, S.C.
311 East Chicago Street,
Suite 410
Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53202
Phone: (414) 273-8550

You may have an attorney help or represent you.

If no complaint accompanies this Summons, you must respond with a written demand for a copy of the Complaint within forty-five (45) days of September 9, 2021. That request must be made to the court and the plaintiff's attorneys at their respective address above.

Legal Notices

If you do not timely respond as described above, the court may grant judgment against you for the award of money, or other legal action requested in the third-party complaint, and you may lose your right to object to anything that is or may be incorrect in the third-party complaint. A judgment awarding money may become a lien against any real estate you own now or in the future, and may also be enforced by garnishment or seizure of property.

Dated this 2nd day of September, 2021.

HOROSCOPES

September 2021 Horoscopes • Week 4

CAPRICORN

CAPRICORN – Dec 22/Jan 20
This is a week to sit back and slow down. Channel summer vibes even if it's not quite summer any longer, Capricorn. If you didn't have a chance to get away, do so this week.

ARIES

ARIES – Mar 21/Apr 20
Attention to detail is very important this week, Aries. Be sure not to lose your focus as things you do will be highly scrutinized by others. Ask a third party to check your work.

CANCER

CANCER – Jun 22/Jul 22
Feel out the crowd and make adjustments to the way you interact with others based on the vibe you're getting, Cancer. If people are outgoing and boisterous, follow suit.

LIBRA

LIBRA – Sept 23/Oct 23
This could be an extremely creative week for you, Libra. Afford time for artsy pursuits and you may be surprised at what you can create. You may discover a new passion.

AQUARIUS

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
Your nurturing instincts are on alert, Aquarius. This is an excellent time to tell someone you care about that you're always available for him or her. Reach out soon.

TAURUS

TAURUS – Apr 21/May 21
Give others room to breathe and respect how they're feeling in certain situations, Taurus. Just because you feel comfortable doesn't mean others will as well.

LEO

LEO – Jul 23/Aug 23
Maintain a positive outlook in regard everything you encounter this week, Leo. A positive perspective can make all the difference when a lot is on your plate.

SCORPIO

SCORPIO – Oct 24/Nov 22
Scorpio, you're not typically one who excels with last-minute details. Therefore, start planning on an upcoming event and make sure you have all of your ducks in a row.

PISCES

PISCES – Feb 19/Mar 20
Good times are ahead, Pisces. Keep an open mind and embrace any opportunity to do something good for others.

GEMINI

9U FALCONS EARN ANOTHER WIN

Two teams that had not beaten or scored on came to battle Sunday morning.

The Oswego Panthers arrived at Dickinson Field looking to continue their early season success. The Hinsdale Falcon 9U players were equally as determined to build on their fast start to the season.

Both defenses flexed their collective muscles to start the game. After a Michael Kipnis 30-yard punt return, “Kipper” decided to finish the drive with a 32-yard touchdown run, breaking two tackles before reaching the promised land. Nate Thangamani, Josh Castro and Bennett Zeikus had key blocks on the inaugural score, giving the Falcons a 6-0 lead.

The Hinsdale defense posted back-to-back defensive stops to end and start the halves. Another long punt return by Kipnis offered the Falcons great field position. Spencer Marnell sprinted in for a 22-yard touchdown run and a 12-0 lead. The touchdown scamper included nice blocks by Grady Wood, Mas Burdi, Ryan Pieczkowski and a skillful fake by Marnell. Even the referee commented on the great fake.

The Falcons’ defense was impressive most of the day. The Panthers did get a late touchdown to cut the lead to 12-7. But the Falcons slammed the door on the Panthers last-ditch effort. Gavin Schuler, Sullivan Camp, Salvi Calandriello, Luke Lieberenz, Ben Murphy, Nick Carbonara, George Beatty, Seabass Christensen, Keegan McCoskey and Jack Corry were instrumental in the Falcons’ third straight victory to start the 2021 campaign.

Next up: Park Ridge Sunday.

JV SILVER SHUTS OUT OSWEGO

JV Silver rolled to a 26-0 win on the road at Oswego this past weekend.

The Falcons scored on their first possession of the day and never looked back. Tom Golon almost broke the first play of the game on a carry off the right side. Two plays later Owen Sunderson lowered his shoulder and ran over an Oswego cornerback for the first score of the day. Golon would add another first-quarter touchdown and Sunderson would throw a touchdown to punch in another score before the half. Sunderson’s pass found pay dirt when Jack Wyent reeled the ball in after a beautiful corner route, spun away from a would-be tackler and trotted into the end zone just as the half completed.

Golon would add another second-half touchdown to complete the onslaught. Alex Przyzycki also ran the ball well for the Falcons, compiling several nice runs. Falcon offensive Linemen Michael Sharples, Luke Zajicek, Matthew Tomfohrde, Harrish Mekla, Jimmy Satchwell and full-back John Breton made life easy for the Hinsdale ball carriers, who ran wild on the day.

The Falcon defense shut down the Oswego offense all day long. Defensive ends Luke McLaughlin and Henry Kohn led the stifling defense, bottling up Oswego runners play after play. Defensive tackles Jonathan Fausto and James Frankel and cornerback Drew Wyent made nice stops in the second half to shut the door on any possible second half comeback.

The JV Silver Falcon squad plays next on the road at Ruzicka Memorial Park at 2:30 p.m. Sunday as they take on Bartlett.

JV GOLD NEARLY GETS THE WIN

It was another epic battle between the Oswego Wildcats and the Hinsdale Falcons JV on Sunday afternoon on a hot day at Dickinson Field.

The Falcons drew first blood thanks to some fantastic blocking by Meko Zecevic, Luke Injaychok, Charles Calhoun, Don Mershon and Chris Kasky. Two great runs by Jupiter Pohlenz set up a nice 30-yard touchdown scamper by Marko Wallace.

The Falcons were facing a 14-6 deficit with 30 seconds left in regulation.

Quarterback Brian O’Malley hit Jupiter Pohlenz on an electrifying 89-yard touchdown pass to get within 14-12. Fatigue was starting to set in, so the team attempted its first ever 2-point PAT. It came up just barely short, leading to a 14-12 loss.

HODDLE SHINES IN VARSITY SILVER WIN

The Falcons faced the Bloomingdale Bears on Sunday afternoon and had the game plan to win.

The Falcons faced adversity at the beginning with Bloomingdale threatening a score from the 4-yard line on first down. The Falcons’ defensive line — led by Corbin Camp, Liam Joyce, Luke Melillo and Anthony Mayan — denied any movement further and Alec Allegra, Albin Stromberg and Johnny Martinez made consecutive tackles to end the Bears’ threat. From there the Falcons did not look back, scoring 24 unanswered points.

Conor Huddle was a magician running the ball, rushing for three touchdowns and compiling over 150 yards. Huddle also spread the ball around to receivers Navin Limson, Gavin Klobach, Will Lynch and Alex Garcher. The offense was as dynamic as the defense was stout!

Luke Melillo sealed the victory with a 55-yard fumble return for a touchdown.

It really feels like the Falcons have figured out their identity, which is a combination of a dynamic offensive attack and a suffocating defense.

The final score: Falcons 24, Bloomingdale Bears 6.

The Falcons next game is Saturday night at Mooseheart High School Stadium in North Aurora, where they take on Tri-City Green at 5:30 p.m.

SENIOR GOLD WINS THRILLER

The Falcons Senior Gold knew Palatine would test every fiber, and at the end of the game, they would know exactly what kind of team they have.

When the smoke cleared, it was the Falcons 34, Palatine 26.

The Falcons took a 26-18 lead on a Riley Contreras 30-yard scamper with 2 minutes left. But Palatine wasn’t done. They drove the length of the field and tied it on a 2-point conversion to Sweet T Paws in the back of the end zone. Wasting no time, the Falcons implemented their 2-minute offense and in three plays, with only 7 seconds left, Contreras found Jack Lesniewicz in the corner for the game winner. James Skokna had some key catches along the way, and Patrick Connors had two explosive touchdowns.

Owen Joyce led the defense with 10 tackles.

Next up for the Falcons is the Plainfield Jr Cats led by legendary coach Nick Bjorson.

HLL 10U All-Stars capture state championship

The Hinsdale Little League 10U District All-Star team ending its seasons with an 11-0 record and wins at each of the three tournaments on the path to becoming Illinois state champions: District (played in Burr Ridge), Sub-State (played in Burbank) and State (played in Ogelsby). State is the final tournament for 10-year-old teams.

The Hinsdale boys beat Elmhurst in the final game of the state round by a score of 4-3 on an eighth-inning walk off sacrifice fly by Cal Gambla that scored Chase Morris. Regulation games typically are six innings, but the teams were tied at 3-3 after the 6th and 7th innings.

The season lasted six weeks and the boys had 25 practices in the summer heat, in addition to the 11 games.

The team’s 13 players represented eight different regular season HLL teams and four different Devils Baseball Club travel teams.

“One of our main challenges was taking a group of kids who had never played together and turning them into a team,” manager Preston Tims said. “Many of the players had to learn new defensive positions and generally take on roles that they’d never been in.”

The Little League tournament rules are different from the regular season and from travel ball, both in terms of playing rules and substitution procedures.

“This dynamic created challenges for the players as well as coaches,” Tims said.

Some of the team’s most competitive games were against Clarendon Hills early in the district round. Not only was it great baseball, but the boys had fun playing against their friends, neighbors and Devils travel teammates.

The team won 9 of 11 coin flips to capture the advantage as the home team.

The team celebrated the district championship with pizza and the arcade at Papa Passero’s, enjoyed a team pizza party at the Peirce Park picnic tables before the state tournament began and celebrated the win at state with a team party at Fuller House after returning from the championship game in Ogelsby.

The boys had a great time rooting for the 12U HLL team that also won state. The boys attended a number of the 12U District and Sub-State games and were a formidable cheering section.

“We learned a lot from the 12U’s perseverance to come back and win their Sub-State tourney after a tough early loss,” Tims said.

Team members are Keaton Cassell, Logan Douglass, Cal Gambla, Luke Main, Spencer Marnell, Chase Morris, Jude Rastorfer, Landon Ronaldson, Dylan Thick, Clayton Tims, Brock Willits Matthew Wiskowski and Liam Wos.

Coaches are Crag Cassell and Bill Main.

STUDENT ATHLETE PROFILE

Name: Isabella Terry
Year: senior
Hometown: Hinsdale

When did you start running?

I first started running in middle school, but then I did not end up going out for the cross country team (at Central). I thought with COVID and everything, junior year was the perfect time to rejoin the cross county team.

What do you enjoy most about the sport?

My teammates. They are the nicest people. They are always encouraging and they always make me laugh. I also think cross country is a sport that is very difficult for all of us, so we all kind of bond over that.

How does it feel to be back to a regular season?

It makes everything more exciting knowing it's my first and last time doing all of these things.

How do you push through when running gets tough?

That's where I think the teammates come in. We're always trying to encourage each other. If I see my teammates push through, I know I can do it as well. You also take it small part by small part. When you're doing a three-mile race, you don't think, 'I have to run three miles.' If you think, 'I can get through this mile or this half-mile,' it makes it a lot more manageable.

What is the best advice you've gotten from a coach?

My coach is renowned for saying, 'There's never a crowd on the extra mile.' He tells us that all the time, and I think it's really true.

What would people be surprised to know about you?

This is kind of random, but I might want to be in the CIA.

What are your plans for next year?

I have no idea. I am the indecisive person. That decision about college and college applications will take me a long time.

Why does coach Mark McCabe like having her on the team?

This is only Isabella's second season of cross country, but you'd never know it. She has developed into an outstanding leader in every possible way. Her performance on the field of play is at a whole new level and I think we're going to see some great races from her this fall. She is a captain who leads both verbally and by example and who, in a very short time, has become a key member of our 2021 Girls HCXC team and program.

Krueger keeps HC boys golf on course

With abundant individual talent each year, head coach focuses on team unity

By Ken Knutson

kknutson@thehinsdalean.com

Central varsity boys varsity golf coach Jess Krueger recalled a standout Hinsdale Central golfer years ago boasting in the team van about his superior shot-making skills.

Krueger, who was at the wheel, looked in the rear-view mirror.

"I said, 'How many state tournaments do you play in as an individual?'" Krueger recounted.

"None" was the answer. The player and his cohorts got to play only when the team qualified. The message landed.

"That kind of permeated through, the idea that we can help each other, we can get better as a group," he said.

Better, of course, is an understatement. Krueger took over as the program's head coach in 2006 after serving as assistant coach for nine years. In 2007 the team placed third in state, the program's best result in nearly three decades. The Devils got one closer in 2008 with a runner-up finish.

The championship would come a few years later in 2012. And they kept coming in 2013, 2014, 2015 — every year through 2018, a historic seven-year string of titles that elevated the school into a state-leading tie with Normal University High School in amassing 10 first-place trophies overall.

"I ran into really good kids. The mix of kids that I had for seven years was outstanding," Krueger said.

A photography, architecture and engineering teacher at Central until he retired in 2017, he discovered a lot of overlap in instruction between the classroom and practice range.

"I did a lot of group work,

Central boys golf varsity head coach Jess Krueger said having players who practice and compete outside the high school season allows him to focus on fostering team camaraderie in an otherwise solo sport. "Knowing that there are six guys and they've all got each other's backs, they all know they can score, that helps," he said. (Jim Slonoff photo)

a lot of hands-on work (as a teacher) and I got to know the students," he said. "On the golf team we get to know each other doing a lot of group as well as individual work."

He said Central was poised to win it all in 2009 but got tripped up in sectionals.

"2009 was as a good a team as I've had. They just didn't make it to state," he said.

Central graduate Harry Boling was a member of that team. Boling reminisced about the unique communication style of the Rhinelander, Wis., native, drawing a comparison to a popular actor.

"I think of the little pauses he takes before speaking, his head tilted back slightly. He must use these pauses to really think about his words, because his messages are always direct and clear," Boling reflected in an email. "And sometimes he doesn't need words. He has a James Gandolfini-like ability to convey so much with a look, whether he's comparing the size of Wisconsin and Alaskan fauna or breaking down a post-tournament disappointment."

The weather was definitely disappointing at the 2012 state meet, forcing the cancellation of the second and final round. Fortunately Central had a first-round lead, which meant the school's first state title since 1960.

"It was nice they were able to go out and get a lead (after the first round)," he said. "That was interesting. It was a lot of fun."

The 2007 campaign evokes more visceral memories.

"It might have been more exciting for that third-place trophy with that group of kids," Krueger said. "They knew that they were close the year before and that good things were coming down the pipeline."

The seeds of his coaching pursuit were cultivated at his alma mater the University of Wisconsin—Stout thanks to his educational psychology teacher who was also the golf coach — and the former head football coach.

"I didn't play on the team, but he let me hang around and learn and figure things out," Krueger related. "You come to find out that (education and psychology) is a good combo in a golf coach."

"Always do the right thing," he continued. "Never ask players to do anything more than they're capable of. I say, 'Just give me your best game. If you've done the work, you know you can compete.'"

And listen to each player. "Don't make them fit into a mold. Each kid's a little bit different," he said.

Boling suggested a little of his mentor's football coach tendencies may have rubbed off, as well.

"I think he gets the most out of his players with the right mix of inspiration and (just a little) intimidation," he commented.

During the off season, Krueger finds inspiration in northern Wisconsin's pristine natural landscapes and abundant wildlife.

"I get as much fishing as I can in before the tourists show up, when there's still room on the lakes," he quipped

Bryce Canyon National Park in Utah and the Rocky Mountains rank high on his list of photographic destinations. For golf tracks, Chicago Golf Club is the most impressive he's experienced.

Winning a state title may be Central boys golf's perennial expectation, but it's an unspoken one.

"What they've done in the past is great, but I don't dwell on it or talk about it during the season," Krueger said. "Don't try and look too far ahead. We're always trying to get a little bit better each day — one swing at a time, one hole at a time."

Seeing the outcome of his players' commitment is his reward.

"I like to set goals as a group, and then they work hard to go out and achieve them."
