Rockin' and stompin' in the park — Musician Super Stolie brought her music and energy to Hinsdale's Lunch on the Lawn concert series June 16 in Burlington Park. Stolie had the audience laughing, dancing and singing throughout the show. Greta and Marie Klein were among the dozens of kids enjoying the performance. The series of free shows, sponsored by the village's parks and recreation department and the Hinsdale Public Library, continues July 14 with Scribble Monster: The Eco Show and concludes Aug. 4 with Dan Gogh's Magic and Art Show, all held at 12:30 p.m. in Burlington Park. Third arrest made in dealership burglaries

Three Hinsdale officers honored for thwarting criminal activity by armed suspects

By Ken Knutson

kknutson@thehinsdalean.com

The Hinsdale Police Department has arrested a 15-year-old male Chicago resident in connection with the May 17 burglaries to the Land Rover and Continental Motors dealerships on Ogden Avenue.

DuPage County State's Attorney Robert Berlin and Hinsdale Police Chief Brian King announced June 16 that the juvenile — the third suspect and second juvenile apprehended in the case — was taken into custody June 15 from his residence and charged with armed violence, aggravated unlawful possession of a stolen motor vehicle, burglary and criminal damage to property.

According to Hinsdale police, on May 17 officers responded to alarms at the two dealerships to find a group of three individuals attempting to flee the scene in a stolen vehicle. The officers boxed-in the vehicle, and the suspects attempted to flee on foot. One subject fled while holding an automatic handgun with a high-capacity ammunition magazine. RaJohn Stewart, 24, of Country Club Hills, and a 16-year-old male were apprehended at the scene and charged on multiple counts.

On May 26, Hinsdale officers executed a search warrant in south Cook County and seized a vehicle also used in the crime. A search of the vehicle led to the recovery of two fully automatic firearms with extended magazines.

On June 15, Hinsdale detectives tracked down the 15-year-old suspect in Chicago's Englewood neighborhood, later learning he was wanted on two warrants from 2020 for aggravated unlawful use of a weapon and burglary after being arrested and failing to appear in court. The offender was ordered to be detained in DuPage County on the Hinsdale charges.

"The identification and apprehension of this juvenile demonstrates the Hinsdale Police Department's commitment to seeing a case through from beginning to end. I have no doubt that thanks to their efforts, anyone allegedly involved in this crime will be held accountable," Berlin said.

King said investigators determined that the vehicle the suspects arrived in was reported stolen out of Chicago on May 9 and that it had several bullet holes. He expressed relief that the suspects are being held in DuPage.

"In the short period of time we have investigated this case, the Hinsdale Police Department has recovered three large-capacity firearms, one an AK-47 fashioned into a handgun," King detailed in a statement. "The decisions to detain in DuPage County could potentially save the lives of these young men or someone else."

He said his department is seeking additional suspects involved in the incident.

Stewart posted bond and was scheduled to be in court yesterday after press time.

The 16-year-old suspect remains in custody.

At the June 15 village board meeting, Village President Tom Cauley presented Sgt. Thomas Krefft and officers Ryan Grahn and Michal Dzierzega with commendations for their actions that day.

"This incident could have had a tragic outcome. It did not because of the professionalism and courage displayed by these three officers," Cauley proclaimed, adding, "I think we all should be very thankful for our police officers."

ONCE UPON A TIME

A little bit of France - This home at 314 N. Lincoln St. was William built for D. Gates, founder and president of American Terra Cotta Company. Not surprislingly, the entire exterior was constructed of terra cotta. According to Sandy Williams book, "Images of America -Hinsdale," the design was inspired by a Loire Valley chateau and built by the Chicago architectural firm of Jennery & Mundie. To support the weight of the structure, the basement was divided into rooms matching those of the floor above. The adjacent lot featured gardens and a terra cotta fountain but has since been redeveloped.

Gardening adds color to lives and lawns

Green-thumbed residents find satisfaction in nurturing vibrant growth in all its forms

By Sandy Illian Bosch news@thehinsdalean.com

With flowers as the palette and her yard as the canvas, Janet Roxworthy thinks of her garden as a painting in progress.

"I'm always tweaking.
There's always something to do, always something to change," said Roxworthy, who has been transforming the landscape around her Hinsdale home for nearly a decade.

Her yard is filled with ornamental grasses, knockout roses, coneflowers and coral bells. Hostas and ferns add life to the shady spots, and hydrangeas, lavender and clematis add dashes of color.

While perennials are her favorite things to grow, Roxworthy branched out into vegetable gardening just a few years ago. In her 4-by-4 plot, she grows tomatoes, green beans and whatever she feels inspired to try. Easy-to-grow herbs add interest to Roxworthy's garden and flavor to her food.

"I try to incorporate them into my summer cooking," she said.

A simple stroll through the neighborhood sometimes offers inspiration for Roxworthy's ongoing garden project.

"Hinsdale has some of the most beautiful gardening vignettes you will see anywhere," said Roxworthy.

Roxworthy said much of her interest in and knowledge of gardening came from a former neighbor who inspired her to begin her own outdoor sanctuary. Now, Roxworthy trades tips and tricks of the gardening game with fellow members of the Garden Study Club of Hinsdale, including Mary Ann Parks.

After 20 years of digging, potting and planting, Parks said she still considers herself an amateur gardener.

"I absolutely do it as a hobby," said Parks, whose garden contains more than a few blooms obtained at the Garden Study Club's annual plant sale.

"You can find unusual plants to add to your gar-

■ SUMMER PURSUITS

This is another in a series of stories on summer hobbies den," said Parks, who helped organize the sale this year.

Held each spring, the sale allows members to find new homes for the perennials that are in need of dividing. Money from the sale helps the club care for the garden outside the Hinsdale History Museum on Clay Street.

"We also make donations to the village of Hinsdale," Parks said, including the new crab apple trees along the train tracks.

Much of Parks' own property is filled with perennials, but she also finds room for herbs, vegetables and the occasional horticultural experiment.

After successfully growing birdhouse gourds a few years ago, she added loofah gourds to her repertoire last summer.

"That was a fun project," she said.

Part of what makes any

Peonies add color to the fenceline at Mary Ann Parks' Hinsdale home. The early spring blooms are favorites of Parks, a longtime gardener. (Photo provided.)

gardening project fun is the fact that failure has no serious consequences, Parks said. If something doesn't work, she just tries again.

Parks said she likes to supplement her perennials with sprinkles of seeds that turn into colorful zinnias, hollyhocks and marigolds.

"You can just sprinkle them where you have any bare spots," she said.

From April to September, there's always something blooming in Parks' gardens. With her favorite flowers, peonies, finished for the season, it's now time for daylilies, yarrow, bee balm and shasta daisies.

Even the most carefully planned garden can sometimes offer surprises, such as the echinacea that made an unexpected comeback this year, or the rusty horseshoe that Parks found while digging in the soil. It's now a part of her lawn's decor and a reminder of the many people and plants to which her yard has given life through the years.

Teen recognized for women's wellness outreach

Volunteering and community service are important parts of Shriya Mehta's life. Period.

The Hinsdale Central High School rising senior recently received the National Community Service Awards Ambassador Award from the United Nations Association after logging more than 100 hours of service between June 2020 and April 2021. Many of those hours were spent at the head of Hinsdale's local chapter of Period.

Period is an international organization that strives to eliminate period poverty across all communities and economic sectors.

"Basically what we do is, through service events and education, we spread awareness and fundraise to provide feminine hygiene products to those who need them," Mehta said

Although seldom talked about, Mehta said many struggle to afford the necessities that come along with their monthly periods. In fact, as many as one in four in need of menstruation products has difficulty accessing or affording them, with many consequently turning to unsanitary items such as cardboard or towels.

"As a result, they get diseases that they could have otherwise prevented," Mehta said.

Others miss work or school because of their lack of access to the products they need. Mehta founded the Period chapter here after spending time at area food pantries. She noticed that feminine hygiene products were seldom, if ever, provided. So she decided to do something about it. She discovered Period and applied to launch a local chapter, joining other nearby communities such as Naperville and Chicago.

Worldwide, Period has partners and chapters in 49 states and 50 countries. In 2020, 5 million products were distributed thanks to the efforts of Period. With about 15 active members holding fundraisers and spreading the word, Hinsdale's chapter has been able to donate thousands of products to food pantries and women's shelters, Mehta said.

"This year, we have bigger plans," Mehta said.

Along with continuing to raise money and donate products, she and the other members of the local chapter hope to speak with middle schoolers about the importance of menstrual health and breaking down the social stigma of menstruation. "It's just about starting the conversation," Mehta said.

With just one year left in her high school career, Mehta is already looking forward to how she can help her community after graduation. "I think it would be cool to serve underserved populations," said Mehta, who is considering a career in medicine.

While she is honored to be recognized for her work with Period and the other organizations she serves, including LEAP into Africa and the Red Devil Service Club, Mehta said she never set out to win an award. In fact, she didn't know such awards existed until she received an email from Hinsdale Central Principal William Walsh. Mehta also was recognized with a Zero Hunger Award for hours logged fighting hunger in the Hinsdale area.

"I let my passion guide me," she said.

OPINION

EDITORIAL

Journalism continues to be worth the investment

At a newspaper conference years ago, a speaker talked about the virtual circle of newspapers.

Owners invest in the creating a good product. That quality product attracts readers. Readers attract advertisers. Advertisers spend money to buy ads, providing the owners funds to invest back in the product.

That model has been the guiding philosophy of The Hinsdalean since the first issue in September 2006.

Unfortunately, the same model has not been followed at the Chicago Tribune. And things have gotten even worse since hedge fund Alden Global Capital purchased Tribune Publishing, publisher of the Trib and other major newspapers, for $633 million a month ago.

Two days later, the new owners offered newsroom employees a buyout, and some 40 journalists are taking it. Among them are columnists John Kass, Mary Schmich and Heidi Stevens and sports columnist Phil Rosenthal. Columnist Georgia Garvey is leaving as well, and in her farewell piece, reflected on her early days in journalism.

"In that world, facts were beautiful, never shameful," Garvey wrote. "In that world, truth sat on a throne, was more valuable than money or fame or any other common reward."

That is a world a hedge fund with a reputation for cost-cutting values little.

In his final column, John Kass turned nostalgic as well.

"I've loved this newspaper from the moment I walked through the doors of the Tribune Tower as a smartass kid copy boy more than 40 years ago," he wrote.

Kass, for those who don't remember, was a city hall reporter before taking over for another Chicago legend, Mike Royko.

Why is any of this relevant? Longtime Chicago news anchor Ron Magers, commenting on one of Rob Feeder's columns, said it best.

"I don't like every columnist I read but I like to read almost every columnist," he wrote. "I'll continue my subscription to several newspapers because to cancel feels like giving up on journalism."

We hope there are more who feel like Magers does.

Not all the news on the state of journalism is distressing. In January 2019 the Illinois Press Foundation created Capitol News Illinois, a syndicated service available free to all member newspapers, to provide coverage of the Illinois Legislature. Dozens of reporters across the state used to cover Springfield, but with consolidation and cost-cutting, that number has dropped dramatically over the years. During the last session, CNI had six reporters (three of its own, two interns and a reporter from Report for America) providing credible and unbiased coverage of state government. The service had some 50,000 stories published in 441 newspapers (including The Hinsdalean) in its first two years and two months of existence.

The First Amendment is often cited for guaranteeing people freedom of speech, which is certainly important. But its real power, in our opinion, is its guarantee of a free press AND the ability of people to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Without reporters covering lawmakers at all levels — federal, state and local — how will people know what the government is doing?

In his farewell column, Kass shared his favorite quotation inscribed in the Tribune Tower lobby, from Lord Macaulay.

"Where there is a free press, the governors must live in constant awe of the opinions of the governed."

Let's not give up on journalism.

These fabulous writers served as our contributing columnists during 2020-21.

Would you like to see your name added to the list?

We have a handful of openings for new writers to join this pool in September.

Every summer, the columnists who have spent the last two years writing for us retire, so to speak. This year we are losing Susan, Carol, Jack, Amy, Beth and Alegra.

I can't say enough about the pieces they contributed over the past two years. Among my favorites were Amy's piece on the queen of Christmas (her mom), Alegra's insight into the "driving around" phenomenon, Beth's musings on moving back to Hinsdale after years of living abroad, Jack's thoughts on regret, Carol's recollections of a favorite childhood memory and Susan's tribute to a mutual friend and longtime favorite in town, BJ Chimenti.

We've included contributing columnists in our paper since our first issue in September 2006. Jim Slonoff and I wanted to have multiple voices represented on our opinion pages, and inviting residents to share their thoughts is a great way to accomplish that.

Over the years I've come to think of many of these writers as my friends. I might not see most of them more than once a year, but the stories they share create a connection. Reading their columns each week is one of my favorite parts of my job.

If you've always enjoyed writing or have a notebook filled with personal essays — and you live in Hinsdale — I'd encourage you to apply for one of our open positions. Columnists write once every seven or eight weeks during the school year for two years.

All you need to do is email me a sample column of 450 words along with ideas for three additional columns. The ideas don't need to be detailed, they are a factor in the selection process.

Please include an address and daytime phone number along with your name. I'd also love to know just a bit about who you are and why you are interested in writing a column.

One of the open positions will be reserved for a high school senior. (Moms and dads of talented writers, feel free to give them a nudge.)

I must also insert a caveat: If you are interested in writing to get free publicity for a business, nonprofit organization, political agenda or other similar reason, this is not that opportunity. Please do not apply. Elected officials and employees of public bodies are not eligible, either

My email address is below. The deadline for submissions is Monday, July 19.

I have been writing a column of my own since July 1999. Some weeks (like this one, when I have a job to do) are easier than easier, but it is always a labor of love. I know that is the case for our contributors as well.

One final note. This is not a paid position. The rewards come in the form of compliments from friends and neighbors and the occasional stare in the check-out line at Walgreens from someone who recognizes you from your picture in the paper.

The greatest reward, I think most writers would agree, is the opportunity to share a story. Amy McCauley said as much May 6.

"As I write my last column for The Hinsdalean, I am grateful for the opportunity to share a few tales of my own," she wrote in a column about reading her own (mistakenly published) obituary, a fate she shares with Mark Twain, Ernest Hemingway and Alfred Nobel.

"Like Nobel, reading the end gave me perspective. I realized I had always been a storyteller. I just needed the courage to write a new beginning."

Perhaps this could be a new beginning for you.

OPINION

GUEST COMMENTARY

Why grit is the best indicator for success

Growing up, I always believed that attaining higher education and possessing an above-average IQ were strong indicators of success. I believed that a class schedule full of AP classes would lead to a top-rated university, which in turn would lead to a life of prosperity and achievement. Study hard, work hard and all of your dreams will come true.

The reality is that's not always the case.

While it's true that some people with fancy degrees go on to live highly successful lives, I have a strong suspicion that there is more to their success than outward accolades. According to Angela Duckworth, author of the best-selling book, "Grit: The Power of Passion and Perseverance," the best indicator of future earnings and happiness has nothing to do with book smarts, talent or a high IQ. The most important factor that can help someone live a life of happiness and success is grit.

What is grit?

Duckworth describes grit as a passion and perseverance for attaining long-term goals and actually following through on them. Those with grit are often described as having a strong sense of character and possessing a resilience that helps them bounce back from tough situations.

You don't learn how to bounce back from tough situations in school. Dealing with the dark side of life is not on any syllabus or curriculum when paving your way into adulthood. However, I believe that it's a crucial characteristic to cultivate, even from a young age.

Gabriela Garcia

I don't know what the future will hold for my children. Perhaps my daughter will want to become a doctor or a painter. Maybe my son will study to be a fashion designer or an architect. What I do know for sure is that no matter how far they rise, life is going to inevitably knock them down.

No matter how hard they work, how good of people they become or how much they care for themselves or others, life will throw them obstacles that may seem impossible to overcome.

It happens to all of us. It's happened to me multiple times.

And when life knocks me down, I have a tendency to let it keep me there. I succumb to negativity and the belief that my setbacks are a place of residence, not reference. Often times, I forget that I'm the author of my own life and I can proactively write my chapters any way I choose.

So, I want to hand each of my children their own pen and paper and remind them to be proactive in life, not reactive like their mom.

I want to teach them how to rise up when everything around them seems to be falling apart. This, I've learned through my many decades of life, is the key ingredient to happiness and success. Possessing emotional stamina that will constructively guide you through all of life's ups and downs will get you farther in life than you can ever imagine.

OBITUARIES

Elaine Hummer

Elaine Y. Hummer, 87, of Hinsdale, died June 19, 2021.

Elaine was a longtime teacher at Madison School. She joined the Community Consolidated Elementary District 181 staff in the 1967-68 school year as a third-grade teacher at Walker School before moving to Madison five years later, continuing to teach third grade. She retired in 1999.

A 1998 Chicago Tribune article spotlighted Elaine's penchant for dressing up in period clothing to play historical figures like Dolly Madison, Abigail Adams and even early Hinsdale settler Mary Childs to educate and engage her students.

"It makes these people human," she was quoted as saying. "These are people who can talk to them and tell them what life was like at a certain time. It's more interactive and certainly more fun."

A private celebration of life will take place in the near future.

DuPage Cremations and Memorial Chapel in West Chicago is handling the arrangements.

Herbert Keil

Herbert Bruce Keil of Potomac, Md., formerly of Hinsdale, passed away peacefully June 8, 2021.

Herbert, 93, was born in 1927 in Chicago to Lillian and Herbert Julius Keil as the youngest of three children. He graduated from William and Mary College with a degree in chemistry and earned a law degree from Chicago-Kent College of Law at Illinois Institute of Technology.

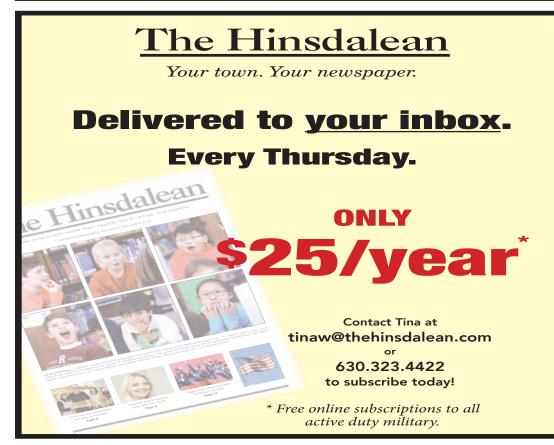

After practicing patent law in Chicago, Herbert moved to Washington, D.C., and founded Keil & Weinkauf, a patent and antitrust firm he led as senior partner until his retirement. In that time, he argued in front of the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Court of Appeals, tried international intellectual property cases for some of the largest biotech and chemical companies in the world, served as a law professor at IIT and UIC John Marshall Law School and prosecuted more than 10,000 patents on behalf of his clients, whom he defended rigorously and cared for deeply.

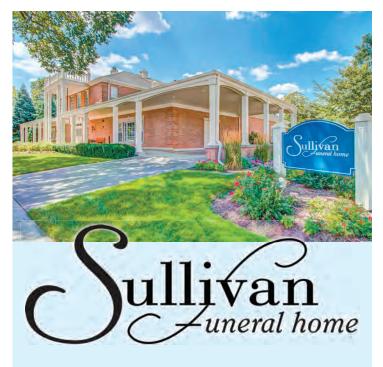

Blessed with a masterful wit and contagious laugh, Herbert was a man of many hobbies and interests. He was a voracious reader, a daily Jeopardy viewer, a competitive tennis player, a state champion Yo-Yo-er, a veteran of the Army and of World War II, an avid bridge player, a licensed pilot (to the dismay of his wife), a horse breeder whose Dr. Banting ran against Cigar in 1996 (he quipped to the Baltimore Sun, "I just hope we don't finish last" — they did not) and a lover of a rich red wine. He was perhaps most notable as a generous tipper and for his inability to pass by a homeless person without buying them a meal — both signs of his generous spirit, empathy and love for others. He will be missed dearly by his family, who will celebrate his life and legacy and cherish their time with such a kind and brilliant man, husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

He was preceded in death by his son, Braden; and his siblings, Robert and Shirley Keil

IT TAKES A VILLAGE

GEORGE PELUSO, DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SERVICES & ENGINEERING

When you're working for nearly 18,000 people, it's difficult to know what any given day might bring.

Whether it's filling a pothole, trimming a parkway tree or clearing an icy street, George Peluso said his goal every day is to provide excellent customer service to everyone who calls Hinsdale home.

As director of public services and engineering, Peluso oversees the staff responsible for the village's roads, water system, parks and more. Everything from road repairs to maintenance of the swimming pool falls under the umbrella of his job — a job that he has held since December 2014

"I was really interested in the opportunity to work in such a beautiful community," said Peluso, who holds a master's degree in public administration from Northern Illinois University.

He had become familiar with Hinsdale while working for the villages of Willowbrook and Western Springs and jumped at the chance to work in the village.

While planning for the village's long-term needs, such as road repaying and building maintenance, he also has to be ready to take care of whatever needs might arise.

Peluso said he begins each day with calls to the village's superintendents of public services, forestry and parks, and water and sewer to see what the day might entail.

They discuss the immediate needs, such as emergency repairs or road closures for special events, and map out the plan for the day.

Of course, plans don't always work out the way they're intended. Weather and water main breaks are just a couple of the many things that Peluso and his staff are always ready to address.

"You have to have this philosophy of catching things as they come through the organization," Peluso said of his job.

From the village's new parking deck to the 140-year-old Highlands train station, Peluso's staff oversees the maintenance of dozens of buildings throughout the village, along with the village's roads, water system, parks and trees.

"The care of trees is very important to our residents," said Peluso, which means it's a priority to him, as well.

It's that ability to address the individual needs of village residents that attracted Peluso to his career, which began with an internship with the village of Willowbrook.

He said he also likes the technical aspects of the job and the opportunity to constantly learn something new.

Hinsdale's relatively small staff and the unpredictability of his job means Peluso can sometimes be found fixing a water main break or driving a snowplow just a couple of the many skills he's learned while on the job.

"I've been lucky to have some great mentors," said Peluso.

But he also learns things from his fellow village employees.

"They're some of the best people I've ever known."

Peluso and his wife, Lauren, make their home in Frankfort, but a part of him lives in Hinsdale.

"I plan on being here for the rest of my career," Peluso said.

Uniquely Thursdays return for 18th season

Annual concert series resumes, helping community get back to normal rhythm

By Sandy Illian Bosch news@thehinsdalean.com

Thursday is about to resume its place as everyone's favorite night of the week in Hinsdale.

The concert series Uniquely Thursdays is back, offering, in addition to live music, local food vendors, beer and wine, and walkable access to all downtown Hinsdale has to offer.

"Everyone is excited," said Eva Field, president and CEO of the Hinsdale Chamber of Commerce.

While other towns are scrambling to create summer fun for their residents and neighbors, Field said the chamber's proactive thinking, and a little bit of good luck, has Hinsdale primed and ready for a full 10-week season of outdoor performances.

"Hinsdale is on the map," she said.

Field said the chamber decided several months ago to delay the start of the concert series by two weeks, hopefully giving the pandemic just a little more time to

"Not knowingly, we opened up the state June 11," Field said, just 13 days before The Millennials are set to take the stage and kick off Uniquely Thursdays' 2021 season.

The Millennials lead guitar player Michael Henehan said it's exciting to be back where it all began, playing for the fans in Hinsdale. The six-member band got its start when its original members were students at Hinsdale's School of Rock. Six years later, some faces have changed, but the band's ability to entertain a crowd with classic rock songs and modern hits has only gotten better. Henehan said the Hinsdale show is one of 22 that the band has booked across the Chicago area this summer.

"I'm so excited to be back," Henehan said. "Hinsdale is always a great crowd."

Uniquely Thursdays will continue every week through August. Guests are invited to pack a picnic, or grab dinner from one of the event's vendors. Azteca, Giuliano's Pizza, Tropical Sno, Dippin' Dots and Sugar Mama's Mini Donuts will all be part of the festivities. Along with its fried dough specialty, Sugar Mama's will have a second truck offering hot dogs, lemon shake-ups, cotton candy and other treats, Field said.

Grownups in the crowd can enjoy a cold beer or a glass of wine while listening to the music on the main stage. New to the taps this year is Revolution Brewery's Anti-Hero IPA. Guests also can choose a Leinenkugel Summer Shandy on tap, or a can of Miller Lite or Coors Lite. Wine lovers can sip a Noble Vines chardonnay or cabernet sauvignon, or a Gnarly Head pinot grigio. Black Cherry White Claws also will be available.

Claudia Thornton, the chamber's marketing director, said the 10-concert series includes something for every musical taste. Fans of Elton John and Billy Joel won't want to miss tribute band Billy Elton on July 1, and reggae enthusiasts can chill out to the beats of True Company on July 8.

The Student Body will bring back the hits of the '80s and '90s on July 15, followed by Karma Committee putting its spin on hip hop, R&B, rock, pop and dance tunes on July 22. July 29 welcomes This End Up, which promises a mix of pop, rock and a touch of country. Thornton said country music fans will enjoy the Ethan Bell Band, set to take the stage on August 5. Fan favorite 7th Heaven is sure to draw a crowd on August 12.

New to the Uniquely Thursdays lineup is Reckless, a high-energy rock band scheduled for August 19. Closing out the 2021 season on August 25 is Semple Band, with a collection of tunes from the '70s through today.

While music is the main event, it takes much more than a band to make Uniquely Thursdays the destination events that they've become over the past 17 seasons. From the ice donated by HinsDeli to the support of presenting sponsor Amita Health Adventist Medical Center, it truly takes a village to make Uniquely Thursdays a success, Field said.

Kramer Foods will donate bottled water, which will be sold at the event for $1. Proceeds from bottled water sales help to offset the costs of the weekly summer concerts, Field said. She also thanked top sponsors Jameson Sotheby's, Hinsdale Bank, Band & Wire Orthodontics, and LaMantia Design & Remodeling for their support.

Uniquely Thursdays takes place from 6 to 9 p.m. in Burlington Park, 30 E. Chicago Ave. For more information, visit http://www.hinsdalechamber.com/uniquely-thursdays.

in the Chicago land area. He wrote Row to help anyone face some of the same struggles that he did and raise money for different organizations. Row is a story of redemption. His character portrayed in the book is a true manifestation of his life with a fictional underlying storyline.

This journey began years ago. He threw a hail Mary back in 2004 when he initially started. Row was called, "The Life of a Bodybuilder." 40 pages in and all his data vanished from his desktop. After a long break he started writing again.

In his book, he discusses his experiences and how they changed him. If he didn't change, he would have ended up six feet deep or locked in a cell for the rest of his life, probably on death row, which is where this book takes place. This book is a metaphor on how his life used to be before he got his act together. He spends a lot of time on part three titled, "Knucklehead Philosophy" because he felt it was important for his readers to understand there were a lot of bad choices made before he finally made a change. Now, he has been sharing his experiences with others through outreach efforts and can hopefully help others with his life story.

The advice he gives to his readers is to make your own choices in life. Live by the beat of your own drum. Don't live your life based on other's beliefs. Make your choices and live by them. We only life one life, make the most of it.

His inspiration came from his late father, mother, wife, and beautiful daughter.

Row is currently being sold on Amazon and 100% of the proceeds from the book go to charity.

Thinking about moving or buying a second home in NAPLES, FLORIDA

"Laurel was a pleasure to work with. From the moment we contacted her she worked extremely hard for us and always had our best interests in mind. We had a small window of time to find a house and she cleared her schedule to help us. We could not have found a better realtor and would recommend her to anyone looking for their perfect home."

- Jim C., Downers Grove, IL

"Growing up in Downers Grove, winters always brought the joy of first snowfall and the simultaneous desire to escape to Florida. Thanks to Laurel, the call to head south is now a reality. Due to her relentless hustle and ability to spot opportunity, we are happy to have found a coveted gulf access home in Naples. We gave her a needle in a haystack type mission (no HOA, great neighborhood, close to town, gulf access) and she delivered. Throughout the entire buying process, we always felt she was committed to helping us find the perfect fit. Even after the sale, she made sure to provide us with all the local contacts needed to be able to arrive day one ready to sit poolside. Having someone that spoke our Chicago language with all the needed Florida contacts to get the job done, made all the difference. We are already turning to Laurel to find seaside gems for our friends!" – Jenny M., Downers Grove, IL

ON SAIL! Go it, sailfish, up, up and away. What can you draw to complete this picture? To find out, add lines dot to dot.

SPELL OUT! Let's see if you can insert a threeletter word that will complete seven longer words in each of the posers presented at right. In No. 1, for instance, try AFT, and get craft, waft, but that's all. Similarly, in No. 2, try ALE. Result: Whale, pale, kale... but there the string ends.

Now that you have the idea, continue to try words until you find two that comply.

No fair peeking at answers below.

ASH and EEL, respectively, will do it.

STUDENT ATHLETE PROFILE

Name: Cayden Torsberg Year: graduated senior Hometown: Hinsdale

How long have you played lacrosse?

I started playing lacrosse when I was in sixth grade and I played for IGLA. It was for my WyldLife (Young Life) leader, she was my coach.

What do you enjoy most about the sport?

It's such a team-oriented sport. You can't be successful when people play for themselves — it's rather when everyone plays for the team. Believe it or not, it also has taught me several life lessons.

How has COVID-19 affected your high school career?

We didn't get a season last year and throughout this whole year, we've been trying to take whatever practice times we could get. A lot of times that would be 6 in the morning or 8:30 at night.

Do you have any pregame rituals or routines?

Every game we link arms on the 30-yard line while the National Anthem is being played and we pass a squeeze down the line. I always say a prayer during the National Anthem.

How have you improved over the past four years?

When I was cut (from JV) my freshman year, I was beside myself and my coach told me to trust the process and that honestly was so true, because I went from playing on the freshman team my freshman year to being a captain on the (varsity) team my senior year. It motivated me and pushed me to become just as good as all my other amazing teammates.

What are your plans for next year?

I'm going to study nursing at the University of South Carolina. They don't have a team at my school, but I would love to play on some sort of club or intramural team if possible.

What has been most rewarding about playing?

I'm so happy and honestly surprised at the amount of relationships I've formed simply through playing Hinsdale Central lacrosse. It's truly a family and I can always count on any of my teammates or coaches to have my back in anything through life.

Why does coach Matt McNiff like having Torsberg on the team?

Her story of how she came to be an essential member of our program is quite awesome. She was cut from JV and played with frosh her first year. What she did to improve her skills and confidence is remarkable.

Central girls lacrosse captures third

Team battles through COVID, coaching changes to retain spot among state's elite

By Ken Knutson

The Hinsdale Central girls lacrosse team captured third place at the IHSA state finals Friday, the program's third consecutive top-three finish.

The Red Devils defeated Benet 18-6 in the consolation game Friday after falling to eventual state champion Loyola Academy 7-14 in Thursday's semifinal.

Varsity head coach Matt McNiff said the team's sights were on a first-place trophy but he was proud of the way the team battled through a challenging year.

"We had discussed a state championship every day, and I think the girls really bought into it," McNiff said. "We accomplished a lot. Given the circumstances and the situation, I think we actually handled everything pretty well."

Those circumstances included the absence of an offseason training regimen until McNiff was officially named head coach shortly before the start of the season as well as limited contact days due to COVID-19 restrictions.

"The beginning of the season was really challenging," said McNiff, who also coaches Central football, and he credited team members for their resilience. "They were the toughest group of athletes I've worked with in my career."

Co-captain and graduated senior Charlotte Callahan said the team was able to overcome a lot of adversity, including having only seven returners with varsity experience.

"Given the cards we were dealt, I was really proud of what we were able to accomplish,' said Callahan, a Yale University recruit.

Solid wins over perennial powers New Trier and Glenbrook South gave the team a head of steam heading in the playoffs.

"We had a lot of momentum," Callahan remarked.

Loyola, however, remained the one opponent that had denied them victory. Facing the Ramblers for a third time in the season was a tough assignment, said co-captain and recent graduate Cayden Torsberg. The team played close the first half before the score tilted Loyola's way in the second.

She expressed pride in her teammates' performance in the state finals.

"We fought hard, and Loyola came out on top," Torsberg remarked. "Third place is still great, and everyone contributed to the win."

McNiff said he saw the team progressively improve in its play against Loyola, who he felt had its best team in years.

"I do feel like we got better each time," he said.

Co-captain and graduated senior Sofija Buzelis, who's moving on to play for Furman University admitted the team was crestfallen after the loss.

"I think everyone was really super down. Right when we stepped onto the field for Benet, there was low energy," Buzelis said.

But that swoon didn't last once the game got going.

"We didn't let it get to our heads.

We fought so hard to especially make sure the seniors got something to leave with," she commented.

Callahan and her teammates tried to take Coach McNiff's words about leaving the past behind to heart.

"He says, 'You can celebrate a win or be sad about a loss until midnight'," she related. "So after midnight, it was in the past and all of Friday was focused on Benet. We definitely tried to put together a good game to finish out and take third place."

Torsberg said the team was able to set its emotions aside and focus on ending the campaign on a winning note.

"We played for what would be the final high school lacrosse game for five of us (seniors)," she said. "We finished strong, and I'm just very proud of where we got for not being able to play that long together"

The girls said they will remember special moments like "Newbie Day" when the seniors surprise all the fresh varsity squad arrivals and go out for team bonding or just having meals together after practice to fortify their camaraderie.

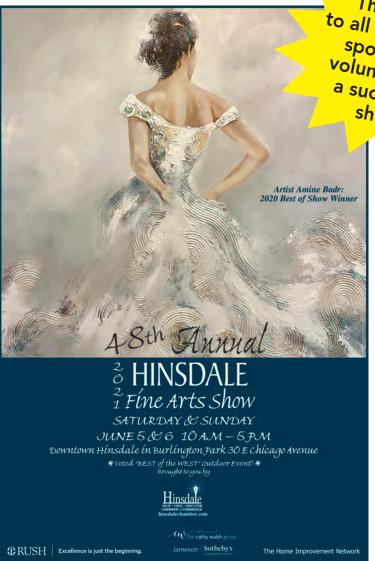

McNiff will soon have another reason to celebrate as he and his wife are expecting a baby girl in August. He recounted what he told the team at their season-ending banquet.

"I said, 'You guys have taught me how to be a better coach and a better person, and now you've given me a jumpstart to being a good father," McNiff related.

He looks forward to having a full year to prepare for next season and a roster full of players with valuable varsity and state tournament experience.

"I feel like now we've got things in place so the girls will go into next year knowing the system offensively and defensively. That's going to give them an idea what to expect," he said.
